ATLANTA, GEORGIA, SATURDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 15, 1888,

RIDDLEBERGER IS MAD AND RESIGNS HIS SEAT IN THE SENATE.

HIS REASONS FOR THE ACTION Opposition Developing to the Admission of the Territories-Better Terms to

Washington, December 14.—[Special.]— Senator Riddleberger, of Virginia, has resigned his seat in the senate to take effect the first of

He makes this emphatic statement today. The fiery readjuster is mad, mad with Ingalls and mad with the entire republican party. In conversation with THE CONSTITU party. In Correspondent today he referred to Ingalls as "that d-d spider-legged Kansan," and

He can abuse me in the senate, but he had best not attempt it in the street."

The Virginian says he will stay in the senate until the first of January simply to bushwhack the republican senators, who have treated him outrageously, and then he will resign. He says the republicans have cut him; that only one man in that body—Senator Palmer, of Michigan—has ever invited him to his home. He says he has never worn a swallow tail coat and never will, and without one he is ostracised from society. He finds that the republicans will not associate with him, and thinks it best to a surface of the section.

While he would not admit it, it is evident While he would not admit it, it is evident that the prime object of his resignation will be to retailate upon the republican senators for their ill treatment of him. He knows that when he resigns, Governor Lee, of Virginia, will appoint a democrat to succeed him, thereby making the senate for the remainder of this session a tie between the two parties. It will not be possible for the republicans to even get their tariff bill through the senate this session.

Therefore it will be almost absolutely neces Therefore it will be almost absolutely neces-sary for General Harrison to call an extra ses-sion of congress shortly after his inauguration, for it is necessary that something be done to materially reduce the surplus by the first of next June, and then the republicans are anx-lous to oust the democrat employes of the house and get their men in as early as pos-

Senator Riddleberger tonight sent a telegram to Governor Lee, of Virginia, tending his resignation, to take effect January the

The republicans have concocted quite a neat ittle scheme o prevent some twenty-five housand demo ra s in the United States from thousand demo ras in the United States from being employed to take the next census and will have that many republicans employed in their stead. The bill for taking the census of 1889 has already been reported from the house committee and is now on the calendar. It is the object of the republicans, and their object will be carried out, to prevent the passage of the bill until the last day of the session, in order to prevent Mr. Cleveland from appointing the superintendent of the census, who in turn has superintendent of the census, who in turn has the appointment of fall others connected with the work, including the state and district superintendents and township collectors.

The meajority of the democrats of the house were not present at the caucus last night, which considered the admission of the several which considered the admission of the several territories, and today many of them express themselves in terms of indignation over its action. They claim that the resolution adopted declaring it the sense of the democratic party-to pass an "omnibus bill" admitting Dakota as one or two states as its people desire, together with Montana, Washington and New Mexico, and to prepare a separate bill for the admission of Utah, would be suicidal to the democratic party. Senator, Gorman, Colonel. admission of Utah, would be suicidal to the democratic party. Senator Gorman, Colonel Oats and Major Barnes took the matter in hand today, and have been getting up a petition for a joint caucus of the two houses to again consider this matter next week. Senator Gorman, who is supposed to represent the president, says that, of course, the republicans would agree at once to the "omnibus bill," and would have Dakota, it being republican, admitted by Mr. Harrison escorting Mrs. Bergland. They took their place in the center of the long line of distinguished guests.

The crowd was admitted at the front entrance on Market street, and passed slowly down the hall in line two abreast, and shook hands with Mrs. Harrison, but after half an hour, the ladies becoming tired, stepped back and occupied seats the remainder of the evening. Mrs. Harrison occasionally came forward, sometimes to the general's side, and again by the side of Mr. Morton. The column moved along in front of the long line of guests, many shaking hands with Governor bus bill," admitting all five territories to statehood without dividing Dakota; for, with it the fifth, Washington, is doubtful, but the democrats feel confident they can carry it.

If the five are admitted together the democrats

Colonel Oats, in speaking of The Constitution's correspondent of the action of last night's caucus, said today that the democrats present were so discouraged over defeat that they were ready to allow the republicans whatever they wanted, but he believes in looking out for 1892, and thinks if the democrats will stand united they can pass the bill admitting all five sections together. He says that even if nothing is done this session, the republican majority in the next congress will be osmall that the Democrats by action the republican majority in the next congress will be so small that the Democrass, by acting will be so small that the Democrats, by acting in concert can prevent the division of Dakota and the exclusion of Utah. He is in favor of resorting to filibustering tactics and preventing the admission of any new territorias unless the republicans will accept the "omnibus bill" to admit all five together. Senator Gorman and Major Barnes agree fully with Colonel Oates, and it is very evident the party will accept their views.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

The House Discusses the Bill But Makes No Headway.

Washington, December 14.—In the house, Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi, introduced a concurrent resolution providing for a holiday recess from Friday, December 21st, until Monday, January 7th. Referred to committee on ways and means.

Mr. Blount of Georgia, raised the point of order against the latter motion, contending that debate could only be limited on a specified section of the bill, and not upon the entire measure. This point was discussed at considerable length as the difficulty arising from the fact that on Friday last, the bill was considered in a very irregular manner, amendments being offered to all sections indiscriminately instead of being offered to each section concentively.

In order to settle the question, Mr. Payson, of Illinois, offered an amendment providing that the bill shall be read by sections, debate on the first section being limited to thirty

The gentlemen named all indignantly denied being influenced in their action in offering amendments by any purpose except a desire to perfect the measure, and the latter referred to Judge Daly as a man who, since his retirement from the bench, had been connected with breezy enterprises.

Mr. Cox. of New York, paid a warm eulogy to Judge Daly's integrity, and in an emphatic

Mr. Spinola offered an amendment limiting the capital stock to $100,000,000, and the amendment was supported by Mr. Payson and opposed by Mr. Bayne, of Pennsylvania, who in the course of his renarks, declared that the bill would be passed this session, if it occupied every Friday.

An Appropriation Bill Reported.

WASHINGTON, December 14.—The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was reported to the house by Mr. Randall. It carried an appropriation of $20,802,245 being $138,195 less than the bill for the current fiscal year and $285,240 less than the estimates. The bill is the least interesting of any legislative appropriation bill for many years. No new officers are created and the bill is almost entirely of a routine character. The board of pension appeals is reduced from six members to three and three law clerks in the office of the secretary of interior are also dropped. Stevens' Point, Wis., December 14.—Ten men were at work today on the inside of the water works standpipe in the course of construction, and were engaged upon the scaffolding nearly ninety feet from the foundation. Suddenly, and without a moment's warning, one side of the scaffolding gave away, precipitating five of the men to the stone bottom. Four were instantly killed and the fifth received probably fatal injuries. The foreman narrowly escaped with his life, being in the bottom of the pipe when he heard the crash above, and sprang through the manhole not a moment too soon. The other five men above had narrow escapes. had narrow escapes.

COHEN TALKS.

FIXES THE GUILT UPON ECHOLS.

A NIGHT OF FOUR WEEKS BROKEN And Full Light Let In Upon the Terrible Covington Tragedy-The Clinching

Proof-What Cohen Says.

Cohen, who has been unconscious since that atteful night in the Pitts house, has spoken. He declares that Echols is the guilty man. THE CONSTITUTION at once dispatched epresentative to Madison to get the full story He was accompanied by a telegraph operator. As the local operator is a lady it would have been impossible to secure her services at the hour, 2:18 a. m., at which the party would reach Madison.

The story which follows speaks for itself: MADISON, Ga., December 15-3 a. m.—
[Special.]—Samps Cohen has talked, and Samps Cohen is being carefully guarded every night by his friends.

The Cohen mansion is a beautiful place, located on a rolling Lill in the eastern portion of the city. It is one to the pleasantest and most delightful formes in the city, and is furnished it a style befitting such a home. In one of a cost delightful rooms in the mansion, Sarny to then has been lying ever since he was brought home from Covington, more dead than alive.

Tonight Bud Mann, a well known clerk, sets beside Cohen's bed

WATCHING HIM AS HE SLEEPS peacefully, and at the same time guarding him from any attempt that might be made to inliet any injury upon him. But his statement is of great interest, and here it is: THE STORY MADE KNOWN. The story of Cohen's statement was first made public through Hon. Emmett Wom-mack, solicitor-general of the district. Day before yesterday, while Colonel Wom-mack was sitting in his office, a Western Union telegraph messenger entered the door, bearing in his hand one of those small yellow envel opes, so ominous of good or bad news quickly borne. The colonel accepted the message with one hand and signed the receipt with the other. Telegraph messages nor nothing else could disturb Colonel Wommack's mental equilibrium, and steady and slow he TORE THE COVERING OFF.

Then he opened the folded yellow paper, and found the message was from Madison As the gentleman glanced over the paper a change came over his face. The message informed him that Sampsie Cohen, who had been beaten brutally with a club in the Pitts house, a few weeks ago, had become rational, and wanted to see him. If the colonel was ever more interested in any other case than the one he made against Herman, the legerdemain, for playing cards on the Georgia railway train. it is the Cohen case. He folded the paper much more hurriedly than he had opened it. By the next train he went to Madison. From the depot he went direct

TO THE COHEN MANSION. He was shown to the neatly furnished bed room in which Samps Cohen has been linger-ing between life and death for the past two weeks. His mother, devoted through her boy's illness as she has been, was sitting beside the bed holding his hand. She smiled pleasantly as Colonel Wommack entered. There was great happiness upon her face because her boy, who had been so near death, promised to recover entirely.

The lady gave the solicitor a chair beside the bed, and then her boy

TOLD THE STORY OF THE TRAGEDY in the Pitts house, which resulted in the death of Thomas, and the almost fatal wounding of himself, as well as in the arrest of Echols, the popular young Covington man. The heard it than Colonel Wommack. The story was pathetically and graphically told, and as the wounded boy came to an end, he buried his head deep in his pillow and closed his eyes almost exhausted.

The colonel sat beside the bed a second, and then imposing silence upon Mrs. Cohen and her injured son, left. He went to the depot and returned to Covington by the next train. On this morning, however, the colonel CALLED UPON THE SHERIFF, and related to him what had transpired. He closed his narrative by saying: "Cohen's statement is very damaging to Echols." In a very short time the story became ger erally known, and with every repetition

ECHOLS WAS BURIED DEEPER and deeper in the horrible crime. The colonel, however, when called upon, declined to repeat what had passed between him and Cohen, but admitted that he had heard the wounded man's statement. But, like everything of the kind, the statement could not be kep,.

AND HERE IT IS
as given to me by a gentleman well known in his city. The story comes to him from relia-ble sources, and is the one generally given on the streets. The Madisonian will print it substantially tomorrow. The language used is that ascribed to Cohen in his interview with

Colonel Wommack: "Thomas and I," said Cohen, "were stop ping at the Pitts house, and on that night ECHOLS CAME IN and we began playing cards.' He stopped for the want of breath.

"Then," he went on slowly, "we played. Echols lost some money and finally left.'

Again Cohen hesitated in his narrative. "But after awhile he came back, and we went to playing again. When Echols came in the last time he had "THAT BIG WAGON SPOKE."

There was another pause. 'Thomas looked at it and laughingly asked: "'Echols, what do you want with that?'
"'Oh! nothing,' answered Echols. Cohen asked for a glass of water, and then, in a minute, continued, "we played cards a while-Echols again went broke. He wanted PLAY ON HIS PROMISE and Thomas declined, saying:

"'I won't put my money up against any man's promise.'

"This made Echols mad, and he and Thomas passed a few words. Then Thomas went to

Cohen stopped again, and after a few easy 'Echols and I sat there awhile, and then I asked him to spend the night with me. He consented and undressed. After undressing Echols said: "No, Samps, I had better go." "He then dressed and left. In a second

WE WERE ASLEEP."

Here Cohen remained silent a minute, and as a cloud passed over his face, resumed: "It was a kind of thud, and it seemed to jar me. Instantly I sprang up, upon my elbow.

As I did so I opened my eyes and saw soms one standing beside the bed beating Thoma over the head with a big stick —"

"Who was it?" asked the colonel, interrupting the wounded man.

"Wait a bit," answered Cohen.

"I saw the heavy stick descend with murderous blows upon poor Thomas's head, and reach over to strike at me."

Cohen came to a pause. Then he went on.

"I was unarmed and at the man's mercy. I throw the cover over my head, and just then came to a pause, and just then came to a pause. Then he went on.

Calro, December 14.—In a letter received at Suakim from Osman Digna, and which is npon my head."

And Cohen put his hand upon the wound.

"The lick dazed me, and then I felt another stinging blow, and that is the last I can recall until yesterday."

There was A DEATHLY SILENCE for a minute and then Cohen resumed:
"I have had moments when I began to talk,
but before I could say a word I seemed to go to sleep again!"

to sleep again!"
"Who was that man, Samp?" asked the olonel. Cohen hesitated. "Go on," said the colonel. "WAS IT ECHOLS?"
Cohen's answer was given in a whisper.
"Did he put the morphine in your arm?"

"Did he put the morphine in your arm?"
"Yes."
"Did you have any money?"
"Yes."
"How much?"
"About $400."
"And Thomas?"
"Ind more than that."
"TRACING THE FACTS.
"I might Jud Glenn, proprietor of the Madison house, who is well known in Atlanta, was called from his bed and asked about the matter. He said:

emied from his bed and asked about the matter. He said:

"Wothmack was here, and had a long conference with Cohen."

"And what was it?"

"He declines to say, and has cautioned all who are in the secret not to talk."

"But isn't there talk anyhow?"

"Yes."

What is it?"

"Why, the general belief is that he has told more than any one ever knew."
"Who does he charge with the crime?"
"He implicates Echols, and his friends are "They fear that some of Echols friends will

"They fear that some of Echols friends will "COME OVER HERE AND KILL HIM."
"They have feared it all along, and have been guarding him."
"Guarding him."
"Oh, yes. Some one sits there with him every night to prevent any harm coming from Echols or his friends."
"Has this been kept a secret."
"Oh, no, not at all. At least not in Madison. Every one, I guess in town knows it."
"Will he get well?"

"Will he get well?"
"It is believed that he will." The police officer who is on duty at night has just said: "I have talked to a friend who has been to see Cohen."

"And what did he say?" he was asked.
"He said Cohen KNEW MORE THAN HE WOULD TELL.

KNEW MORE THAN HE WOULD TELL, but that he had told enough to satisfy him that Echols was very deep in trouble, and that Cohen would show it when the time came."

The statement is being guarded with as much care as Cohen is being watched.

E. C. BRUFFFY. The Madisonian's Story.

The Madisonian of tomorrow will contain the following article, which Mr. Blackburn savanced to The Constitution; Since the atrocious Pitts house murder at Coving ton, the one query was, "Will Cohen know, if he survives the terrible lick that went crushing into his brain, anything about the awful affair?"

This question, it seems, THE FATES HAVE ANSWERED,
And it is thought by many that Sampsie Cohen knows all about the circumstances that transpired in the room on the fatal night, and whether he saw the murderer as he dealt the brutal blow, he can gained his reason, and he has ols, the popular young Covington man. The story was interesting in its details, and no more attentive audience could have heard it than Colonel Wommack. The story from Cohen's lips. Cohen says that Echols came to their room at the

Bitts house, occupied by him and Thomas, bringing with him THE MURDEROUS WAGON STANDARD of which so much has been written, and that it cau-ed one of them to laugh and ask "why in the h-I did you bring that thing here," to which

Echols replied that he just thought he would bring it along. They then seated themselves around the card table, and RENEWED A CAME OF POKER. The game had not progressed far before Echols's money gave out, and Thomas left the game and retired, remarking that he would not play

HIS MONEY AGAINST ECHOLS'S WORD. which seemed to anger the laiter. Cohen at length followed Thomas, when Echols made Cohen believe that he was going to bed with him, but put on his clothes again, remarking that he had to go out, and would be back in a few minutes. As he passed out of the room, Cohen and Thomas were in bed and both were soon asleep.

From this point Cohen's statement is not known arther than that he believes ECHOLS KILLED THOMAS, and attempted to murder him. He further says that Echols lost a good deal of money, and that when struck he had over four hundred dollars in money, and Thomas had more money than he. His statement reflects heavily on Echols, and it is thought that he has said more than has leaked out,

One circumstance in his statement is

One circumstance in his statement is

to that made by Echols before the coroner's jury, towit: What he says about the deadly bludgeon. Echols, it will be remembered, disclaimed all knowledge of it, and Cohen states that it was brought into the room by Echols.

A MOTIVE FURNISHED.
A strong circumstance, which would seem to furnish a motive for the deed, is the statement of Cohen that he (Echols) lost a good deal of money.

EL MAHDI HOL) ANG HIM AND EVIN

GREAT BRITAIN PUZZLED ABOUT IT

CAIRO, December 14.—In a letter received at Suakim from Osman Digna, and which is upposed to have contained the announcement that Emin Pasha and a white traveler (presumably Stanley) had fallen into the hands of the Mahdi, were inclosed copies of a dispatch from a dervish leader at Lado to Khalifa Pasha giving the date of Emin Pasha's surrender as October 10th, and a letter to Emin Pasha from the khedive, which the latter handed to Henry M. Stanley when he was at Cairo. LONDON, December 14.—It is rumored that Osman Digna, in his letter, expressed his willingness to surrender Emin Pasha and his white companion provided Egypt would agree to abandon Suakim. If this proposal is not accorded it is believed that he arrives will be cepted it is believed that both captives will be killed. The British cabinet are now discussing the situation. With his letter Osman Digna sent several Snider cartridges, which, he alleged, were taken from the white traveler. Zanzibaris in Stanley's expedition were armed with Saider the dervishes.

In the house of commons this afternoon, Mr. Smith, government leader, replying to Wil-frid Lawson, said, that as far as was known to the government, the letter written by Osmar Digna announces the surrender of Emin Pasha and a white traveler. The government had no means of knowing whether these allega-tions were well founded.

Earl Stanhope, minister of war, replying to Mr. Dillon, stated that the cost of the army of occupation in Egypt during the current year, would be 110,000 pounds. The expense would be borne by Egypt-the operations entailed further expenditures, the government would consider how they should be met. The Egyptian government had approved of the sending of reinforcements to Suakim.

General Greenfell recognized the letter which Osman Digna had furnished as the original one he had drafted for the khedive Thus Stanley's capture is virtually put beyond doubt. The Congo state officials have not been informed of the situation.

The king of Belgians is agitated by this out-come of the expedition, and is receiving a great many dispatches regarding it. He ad-mits that he was the largest subscriber to Stanley's expedition. The Independence Belge says that England will doubtless do everything possible to liberate Stanley, and that Mr. Gladstone, too bitterly regretts the abandonment of General Gordon, for Lord Salisbury to abandon Stanley and Emin Pasha. to abandon Stanley and Emin Pasha.

Osman Digna's letter was a reply to Major Rundle's request of last August, for news of Emin Pasha. The letter asserts that the nabdi has conquered the whole of the equatorial provinces. The letter stated that one white man escaped.

The Emin relief expedition committees are doubtful of the genuiness of the Osman Dignary.

doubtful of the genuiness of the Osman Digra-letter. They suggest that the khedive's letter may be a copy stolen at Cairo, but they think it more likely that Stanley sent on runners to Emin with the letters, and that these runners were captured. In any case they are hopeful that even if Emin is a captive that Stanley is still free.

GERMANY AND THE SLAVE TRADE.

Herr Windhorst Introduces His Resolution and Debates it.

Brown, December 14.—In the reichstag today, Herr Windhorst, in moving his resolution relative to the suppression of the East African slave trade, said that the resolution was based upon the speech from the throne, and that Germany should co-operate with the other powers. The recent white book, he said, showed that Bismarck was following the only correct course, and he hoped that this energetic action would be continued. The full initiative should be left to the givernment. The reichstag must confine itsely to formulating general proposals, but it should also, irrespective of religion or party, proclaim its views.

ting general proposals, but it should also, irrespective of religion or party, proclaim its views in the matter.

Waermann, national liberal, supported the resolution, urging that Germany should follow the example of England in the suppression of slavery. The steps so far taken, he said, were insufficient. Germany should increase her ports in connection with colonial matters.

Heldorf, conservative, warmly approved the resolution, but declared that private east African companies should only serve as a bridge over which the state's politico-colonial enterprise should advance.

African companies should only serve as a bridge over which the state's politico-colonial enterprise should advance.

Count Herbert Bismarck described the debate as perfectly satisfactory, showing perfect unanimity He said the situation was but little changed since the appearance of the white book, except that Portugal had gained the blockade. He dwelt at length on the evils of slavery, the suppression of which, he said, devolved upon Germany as a duty of honor. [Applause.] The abolition of slavery was a preliminary condition to opening Africa to Christianity and European civilization and trade. "So far," he said, "we have been hand in hand with England, who has cordially supported Germany." He then referred to France's share in the blockade, and said Germany would endeavor to continue the negotiations with France, being encouraged thereto by the present debate. "Before continuing operations," said Count Herbert, "we shall obtain information regarding the country and its inhabitants from persons acquainted with both, and we shall readily rely on information given by the noted explorer. Lieptenant Wissman, who will see the present commotion. We shall neglect nothing that our duty to Germany's renown and honor shall dictate. We must relieve the navy as far as possible. The formation of a colonial corps must be considered, but meanwhile the details of this scheme must be reserved. We must certainly confine action to the limitations marked by the reichstag. I hope that the reichstag, when it meets again a few weeks' hence, will unanimously support the bill, which is useful and will redound to the honor of the reichstag and the government for many future years." Mr. Reid, of the counsel for the Parnellites, called attention to observations made by Mr. Warden, of Morton college, in which he likened Michael Davitt and other home rules to the Whitechapel murderer.

The judges retired for consultation, and when they returned Justice Hannen announced that they had decided that an affidavit reciting the utterance of Mr. O'Brien and his paper must be immediately filed and that Mr. O'Brien must appear before the commission at 10 o'clock tomorrow. They had also decided that notice must be served upon the warden of Morton college ordering him to attend the first meeting of the new sitting in January.

Thomas O'Conpor, who tostified on the 4th instant concerning the alleged doings of the inner circle of the league, was recalled and cross-examined by Sir Charles Russell, for the Parnellites. Mr. O'Connor adhered to the statement that he had received seven pounds in payment for moonlyshing. The money was mone pound notes, and two of them were cashed by the National bank. He had decided, he said, to give evidence simply with the object of putting an end to the need upon earth in Ireland. ANOTHER BLOODY AFFAIR.

Near Boyles station, sixty miles from this city, this evening, John Scott, a negro laborer, sixty years old, was robbed and probably murdered by Charles Bailey, a negro boy about eighteen years old. Scott was a section hand on the Louisville and Nashville road, and had been paid off, receiving $13.50 in money. On his way home Baily came up from behind and struck him on the head with a bar of iron, knocking him down. After securing the old man's money Bailey beat him into insensibility and then escaped. Co's weekly review of trade says:

The most important event of the week in the financial world, the failure of the Panamaa canal has not as yet been felt in this country. The amount of securities held here is not large and there is a general belief that the French government will be obliged to do something to avert wide-spread disaster. But it can do nothing to make permanently valued the vast amount of securities issued, and heavy French losses will, in time, have some effect on the money market elsewhere, in other repsects the financial outlook remains unchanged. In other repsects the financial outlook remains unchanged. Considerable exports of gold continue, but cause neither disturbance nor alarm. The supply of money in all parts of the country is that large and heavy disbur-eneuts of January are now so near at hand that there is unusual feeling of confidence. Business continues to improve in nearly all sections, and though it does not meet the expectations of the most sanguine, there is every in dication that it is greater in volume than that of a year ago.

The bank clearings for the first week of December though they reflect to a noteworthy extent the transactions of mentis ago, on which payments are now maturing, exceed those of last year by 18 per cent, which implies the large volume of present as well as of the past business. Gains outside of New York are remarkably large and uniform, including even southern sections, in which there has been inast depression. Reports from Memphis still indicate that collections are hard to make, and business shows no improvement.

By prompt action Mr. Lee succeeded in extinguishing the flames, and thereby preventing an extensive conflagration, which would have destroyed a great deal of property. No clew has been obtained as to who was the incendiary.

Afterwards they used the bar of the cage door and forced the bolt of the main door of the prison cage, which was secured from the outside. This left them free to descend the steps that led to the outer door, which they did without noise, spreading their blankets down the stairway and walking upon them. CLEMSON'S SCANDAL

STORY, WHICH SHAMES AN HONOR-ED FAMILY

Nashville, Tenn.-Some days ago the chief of An Exciting Debate in the South Carolina Legislature, in Which Family Secrets Come Out.

Columbia, S. C .- There was a genuine sensain the legislature yesterday accompanied by e washing of soiled linen. G. Clemson, who ried the daughter of Jno. C. Calhoun, left Fort Hill, the Calhoun homestead, and a bequest to the state to establish an agricultural college, and the bill was up for discussion accepting the bequest. It is bitterly opposed by the conservative element of the state, and as eagerly advocated by the farmer element. In the meantime Gideon Lee, of New York, who married a daughter of Mr. Clemson, has brought suit to contest the will in behalf of his daughter, Isabel Lee, grand daughter of Mrs. Clem-In the debate it had been charged that Lee, under

In the tobate it had been charged that Lee, under the impression that Clemson was poor, refused to allow his daughter to visit her grandfather. In the course of a speech in reply to this today, Colonol Haskill brought out a scandal not before given to the public. He said that the reason Gideon Lee did not let his daughter visit Ciemson was because Mrs. Clemson knew that Fort Hill was no fit place for a young lady to live at; that on several occasions a lady presided at Clemson's fable, who had a daugh-ter sitting at her side, although the lady had never had a husband, and he added that if the list of on's expenditures was overlooked, there would be found items which certainly rendered the house of Jno. C. Calhoun an unfit place for an inno-cent girl and a descendant of the illustrious statesman to reside.

The parties are all of the cream de lá cream of the aristocracy of the state, and the incident has created a profound. sation. The house finally passed the bill, despite the frantic protests of the opponents, who de-nounced its passage as robbing the granddaughter of Calhoun's favorite child of her birthright. Should the bill pass the senate, it is not improbable that

The house committee on elections has recommended a constitutional amendment to provide an educational quantification for voters. Under it voters must be able to read the constitution of the United States and to write their own name. It is doubtful if the measure will pass, as the opposition to it comes principally from the whites from the middle and upper portion of the state. It will require a majority of two-thirds of both houses, and besides have to be submitted to the vote of the people. It is said such an amendment would distranchise over 13,000 whites and 40,000 to 50,000 negro voters. Most of the leading daily newspapers in the state are sup porting it.

SQUEEZING THE RAILROADS. The state legislature is evidently determined to take the bit in its mouth and set down on the railroads. The senate yesterday passed a bill-to-regulate and restrict the rights of railroad corporations and individuals acquiring additional lines. It prevents railroads chartered in this state from buying out of selling out, and also any railway company or com-bination from consolidating with railroads in this state, except by special enactment of the legislature. The senate also passed a bill giving to the railroad commission absolute power to regulate the rates of freight and passenger traffic, with, however, a provise grauting to railroads the right to appeal to the state courts in certain cases. The house passed a resolution instructing the attorney-general to institute legal proceedings to annul the charter of the Port Royal and Western Carolina railroad, which have been gobbled up by the Richmond and Danville system, after the three counties f Anderson, Greenville and Laurens, through making it a misdemeanor for any member of the legislature to accept a pass over any railroad. Both houses are now considering a bill rejected favor-ably to validate the township railroad bonds, declared unconstitutional by the state supreme court. Raleigh, N. C .- A boiler exploded yesterday at the cotton gin of B. S. Aycock, at Selma. Frag-ments were thrown in every direction for a distance of one hundred yards. Charles Aycock, the engineer and son of the owner of the gin, was terribly injured, and will die. One of the most memorable events in North Carolina was the impeachment trial of Governor William W. Holden, in this city, in 1871. The long trial ended in the conviction of the accused, who thereupon forfeited all rights as a citizen. Some years ago an attempt was made to induce the legislature to pardon him, a two-thirds vote of that body being required, but the attempt was of no avail. Yesterday afternoon considerable surprise was caused the publication, by ex-Governor Holden, of the peachment flied against me by the house of representatives I was held by this judgment as guilty of "high crimes and misde-meanors." I deny this in the most solemn manner. I do not ask you to repeal or rescind the sentence or judgmeet, for it is being executed, and it might not be repealed or rescinded, save by the same court that passed it; but I ask you most earnestly to resolve or declare in your opinion that I was actuated by good motives in what I did, and that I had for my object the best and highest interests of the state. I am not now a party man. Both parties have d's owned me. I appeal to you solely on the ground of justice. I have never been an enemy to the state. On the contrary, I have loved her well, and do now, and am her loyal son, though proscribed and

Charleston, S. C .- At the annual meeting of the cotton exchange a report was made on experiments conducted through the summer with pine fibre cotton bagging as a substitute for jute bagging. The satisfactory results of these tests were telegraphed last August. The report of the committee, however, brings to light some highly important facts relative to the new bagging. These are as tollows: 1. The bagging can be manufactured on almost any weight per yard. 2. It will not rotor stain cotton. 3. It can be manufactured and sold at a less price than jute bagging, even if the jute should be put on the free list. The committee think that with new and improved machinery, the manufacture of pine straw bagging will become one of the most popular indus-tries. Montgomery, Ala. - The sub-committee on ways and means of the Southern Interstate Immigration convention bureau, met at the state capitol yester-day, General Manager Chilton in the chair. The following resolutions were adopted:

Besolved, That the general manager employ his own secretaries and office help. Resolved, That the publication of the proceedings of the Southern Interstate Immigration convention

Wherever the bureau is located there will also be erected exposition buildings for the exhibits of all southern states. Yesterday Colonel Chilton re-ceived a telegram from the board of trade of Pueb-lo, Colorado, offering the bureau the free use of the city's opera house for convention purposes, the state fair grounds for the proposed southern states exposition, and ten thousand dollars. He also received a telegram from the mayor, president of the board of trade, president of the cotton exchange and other prominent citizens of New Orleans, saying that the city would offer all possible inducements and encouragement to the great enterprise. Other telegrams of a similar nature were received from other cities. The members of the executive committee of the interstate bureau who remained over left for their respective homes

police obtained information that one L. R. Marvin was engaged in, or about to become engaged in, the practice of fraud in this city. He thereupon depractice of fraud in this city. He thereupon de-tailed Detectives Porter, Turner and Sidebottom to work up the matter, and yesterday morning the detectives effected Marvin's arrest. Marvin brought suspicion upon himseif. He called at a well known publishing house; said he was selling bed springs and ordered printed some blanks for taking orders. A close examination of the order showed it could be readily detached, leaving a plain note of hand regularly signed which could a piain note of and regularly signed which could, in many instances, be sold. Yesterday morning a bootblack took a note from Maryin to the printer for one of his order books. The detectives, who were on the lookout, watched this boy, and when the note in reply was delivered to a man standing in front of the Maxwell house, he was immediately arrested. At the station the prisoner gave bis name as C. Catlin, and Chief Clack asked him who Maras C. Catlin, and Chief Clack asked him who Marvin was. Catlin replied that he met Marvin on the street, and at his request had the books made. Catlin said he was a married man and that his wife was at a boarding house on South Cherry street.

The detectives subsequently learned that Catlin came here some time ago and boarded six weeks at the Nichalson house under the name of Allen. Chief Clack, upoa hearing this, produced a letter received by him some time ago giving a description of an all-round crook named Allen, who had left his home at Frederick, Md., and eloped with a highly respectable young girl eighteen years of age. This letter also stated that in eloping with the girl he had descried a wife and several children, who are now said to be in destitute circumstances. The young girl refuses to give her name or disclose her identity in any way, saying she had never communicated with her friends since leaving home, and they do not know where she is, or anything of her conduct since leaving home. Catlen, Marvin or Allen has been working for Thompson & Jennings, lightning rod men, in this city. When arrested today he had in his possession a tin spring sample of springs, and a number of blank orders, like the one printed above. Chief Clack has telegraphed the authorities of Fredrick, Ind., and Marvin or Catlin will be held to await developments. Governor Taylor's attorneys will today file their answer to the bill of injunction against his issuing the ecrificate of election to H. Clay Evans, as congressman from the third Tennessee district. He pleads in bar in all the relief sought, except the relief sought aud the charge made in respect of the action of the covernor and the secretary of state in comparing the returns and causing a certificate to be issued to Bates, and reassers that it was prepared as a precantionary measure before any cauvass was made. THE LIQUOR TAX RAISED.

Upon dealers in spiritueus or mait liquors, intoxicating bitters or brandy fruits, or domestic wines, whether dealing in either or all thereof, fifty dollars for each place of business in each county where the same are sold: Provided, this tax shall not relieve such dealers from any local tax or probibitory law in reference to the retail of spirituous or intoxicating liquors, nor be required of those who sell by wholesale spirits manufactured of apples, peaches, grapes, blackberries or other fruits grown on their own lands, when sold in quantities not less than five gallons. rented by said dealer. Said tax shall be for educational purposes.

This paragraph raised considerable debate.
Mr. Felton, of Bartow, offered an amendment to strike out fifty dollars and insert one hundred dollars as the tax on each liquor dealer.
He supported his amendment urging that it was proper that "evil" should be taxed to raise necessary money to support the government.

Mr. Snelson, of Meriwether, favored the amendment; not that he loved whisky less, but he loved the wool hat boys and sunbonnet girlstnore. [Applause.]

Mr. Patterson, of Bibb, and Mr. Arnheim, of Dougherty, opposed the amendment.

Mr. Rawls, of Effingham, proposed to amend the amendment provided that the internal revonue laws are repealed before this goes into effect. Mr. Rawls supported his amendment in a strong speech.

revenue laws are repealed before this goes into effect. Mr. Rawls supported his amendment in a strong speech.

The amendment of Mr. Rawls was lost.

The amendment by Mr. Felton, of Bartow, was next voted on, and upon this the ayes nays and were ordered. The vote stood ayes 85, nays 65, and the amendment was adopted. This increases the liquor tax to $100; heretofore it has been $50. Mr. Rankin, of Gordon, proposed to further amend the paragraph by striking the words "by wholessie," thus preventing the exemption of wholesaic dealers in spirits, manufactured from grapes, fruit, etc. The amendment was lost. The consideration of the remaining paragraphs was proceeded with.

Upon every peddler of sewing machines a tax of twenty-five dollars for each county in which he may operate; upon dealers in pistols, dirks, howies, etc., twenty-five dollars for each county in which they operate.

BUCKET SHOPS.

Upon every individual or firm, or their agents, engaged in business of selling or buying farm products for future delivery, (commonly called "futures,") five hundred dollars each per annum for the county where each business is carried on: Provided, that this tax shall not be demanded of any cotton warehouseman, dealer in cotton, or any provision broker, who takes orders in the regular course of their trade only for actual and bona fide delivery of cotton and other produce so ordered, and where, by the terms of the contract, it is not left to the option of the party so ordering, or the party taking such brider, to avoid the delivery of the business.

Mr. Lewis, of Hancock, moved to strike out this paragraph. The dealing in futures was a species of gambling he said, and the supreme court had so declared it. He did not think that such a business should be recognized. Mr. Harrell of Webster, said the dealing in futures was not a crime by law, and he favored taxing the persons engaged in it.

Mr. Lewis' amendment was lost.

On motion of Mr. Smith, of Gwinnett, the words "meat, sugar, coffee and salt" were included after the word farm products, so as to assess the tax upon individuals or firms engaged in selling or buying farm products, meat, sugar, coffee, salt, etc.

The next paragraph plovides for a tax of one hundred dollars on peddlers of cooking stoves and ranges in each county where said peddlers may operate; upon every agent of billiard, and one of the offer when of the offer weak per seah county.

Mr. Patterson, of Bibb, and Mr. Arnheim, of Dougherty, opposed the amendment.
Mr. Rawls, of Effingham, proposed to amend the amendment provided that the internal revenue laws are repealed before this goes into effect. Mr. Rawls supported his amendment in a strong speech.

The amendment of Mr.Rawls was lost. The amendment of Mr. Rawis was lost.

The amendment by Mr. Felton, of Bartow, was next voted on, and upon this the ayes nays and were ordered.

The vote stood ayes 85, nays 66, and the amendment was adopted. This increases the liquor tax to $100; heretofore it has been $50. Mr. Rankin, of Gordon, proposed to further smouth the agregated by critical states. posed to further amend the paragraph by striking the words "by wholesale," thus preventing the exemption of wholesale dealers in spirits, manufactured from grapes, fruit, etc. The amendment was lost. The consideration of amendment was lost. The consideration of the remaining paragraphs was proceeded with. BUCKET SHOPS.

Upon every individual or firm, or their agents, engaged in business of selling or buying farm products for future delivery, (commonly called "futures,") five hundred dollars each per annum for the county where each business is carried on: Provided, that this tax shall not be demanded of any cotton ware-houseman, dealer in cotton, or any provision broker, who takes orders in the regular course of their trade only for actual and bona fide delivery of cotton and other produce so ordered, and where, by the terms of the contract, it is not left to the option of the party so ordering, or the party taking such of the contract, it is not left to the option of the party so ordering, or the party taking such brder, to avoid the delivery of the produce or products by paying the difference in the maket price of such produce or products at time of delivery: Provided further, that such cotton warehouse-man, dealer in actual cotton or any provision broker does not carry on the business of buying futures in connection with his or their other lutures in connection with his or their other business.

Mr. Lewis, of Hancock, moved to strike jout this paragraph. The dealing in futures was a species of gambling he said, and the supreme court had so declared it. He did not think that such a business should be recognized. Mr. Harrell of Webster, said the dealing in futures was not a crime by law, and he favored taxing the persons engaged in it.

Mr. Lewis' amendment was lost.

On motion of Mr. Smith, of Gwinnett, the words "meat, sugar, coffee and salt" were included after the word farm products, so as to assess the tax upon individuals or firms engaged in selling or buying farm products, meat, sugar, coffee, salt, etc.

The next paragraph plovides for a tax of one hundred dollars on peddlers of cooking stoves and ranges in each county where said peddlers hundred dellars on peddlers of cooking stoves and ranges in each county where said peddlers may operate; upon every agent of billiard, pool or other table fifty dellars for each county in which such person operates. Paragraph twenty-one provides that blind persons or confederate soldiers are relieved from certain taxes; such as that of peddling.

Section five provides that home and foreign insurance companies shall pay one per cent on all premiums in money or otherwise received by them, provided this shall not include return premiums on cancelled policies, and in addi-premiums on cancelled policies, and in addition to the tax imposed by this act upon the gross receipts of such insurance companies, all such companies doing brokerage business in this state, such as discounting notes, bills, drafts or exchange, lending money, etc., as other moneyed capital in the hands of private individuals is taxed.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS. Section six provides that the presidents of building and loan associations shall be required to return to the tax receiver of the county where such associations are located, at its true market value, the stock of such associations owned by stockholders thereof, upon which, as shown by the books of such associations, no advance has been made, or money borrowed thereon, by the individual stockhold.

Mr. Maxwell, of Talbot, moved to strike out the provision, and favored his amendment in a able by said shareholder.

Mr. Maxwell, of Talbot, moved to strike out the provision, and favored his amendment in a short speech. Mr. Atkinson, of Coweta, also favored the amendment. Messrs. Calvin, Lamar and Howell spoke against the amendment, and urged the members not to strike out the provision. These building and loan associations were of great aid to the poor people of the large cities and the amendment offered would result disastrously. The amendment was lost.

Section seven provides that presidents of manufacturing and other incorporated companies (or their agents), other than railroad, insurance, telegraph, telephone, express, sleeping and palace car companies, shall be required to return all their property to the comptroller-general, tax to which such property or gross receipts or het income may be subject, according to the provisions of this act. Section eight provides that among other things, each company doing business in this state as a sleeping or palace car company, shall pay a tax of one thousand dollars per year, payable quarterly.

Sections nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen and fourteen were adopted.

Section fourteen, the concluding section, provided that all taxes raised under and by virtue of this act shall be used solely for the purposes mention in the caption thereof, and not otherwise. This section after it was adopted was reconsidered and stricken out. It was the opinion of the friends of the appropriations for the technological school, branch colleges and the common school fund that itluight result disastriously to these appropriations.

Mr. Harrell, of Webster, stated that he did not so consider it, and thought the general assembly could make any appropriation in ac-this section.

THE LEVY OF TAX.

All of the other sections of the bill having been considered and adopted, section first was taken up. It reads:

"That the governor be authorized and empowered, with the assistance of the comptrollergeneral, to assess and levy a tax on the taxable property of this state of two and four-tenths mills per centum for the fiscal year eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and two and onetenth mills per centum for the fiscal year eighteen hundred and ninety."

AN ADDITIONAL LEYY.

To this Mr. Arnheim, of Dougherty, proposed the following amendment to be added to

To this Mr. Arnheim, of Dougherty, proposed the following amendment to be added to the section: "And the governor be and he is hereby authorized and empowered by and with the assistance of the comptroller general to assess and levy, in addition to the foregoing general state tax, a tax of one half a mill for 1839 and of one mill for 1830 on all taxable property of this state, for the purpose of raising funds necessary to meet the appropriations by this general assembly for educational purposes in instructing children in the elementary branches of an English education only."

Mr. Arnheim explained his amendment to the house. It would be necessary to make this additional levy to raise $165,000 for the common school fund for 1839 and $330,000 for 1830.

The amenendment caused a considerable ebate. Mr. Harrell, of Webster, stated that Mr. Harrell, of webster, stated that in his opinion the rates of taxation as fixed by the ways and means committee would not be sufficient to meet the appropriations for the technological school, branch colleges and the appropriation to the common school fund. The committee had not contemplated any of these expenditures in fixing the rate.

had not contemplated any of these expenditures in fixing the rate.

Mr. Berner wanted to meet the issue squarely. He did not think the amount of money raised by the rate fixed by the committee or the additional amendment by Mr. Arnheim would be sufficient to supply all the expensive the thought some of the the appropriations. He thought some of members wanted to shelve the bill to pen confederate soldiers over to the summer sion.

Mr. Smith, of Gwinnett, offered the following amendment: "That the governor be authorized and empowered, with the assistant of the control of the con ance of the comptroller-general, to assess and levy a tax on the taxable property of this state of one-fifth of a mill for the fiscal years of 1889 and 1890, and this fund shall be used exclusvely to meet the appropriation for maimed onfederate soldiers of this state." Mr. Smith appealed to the house to adopt the amendment; he hoped to have the maimed confederate soldier bill pass the house tomor-row and thought the senate would pass it this was adopted without a dissenting voice. The section was then adopted and the bill in its entirety massed as amended. It was ordered immediately transmitted to the senate.

The Georgia Experimental Farm.

In the event no acceptable response is made to the advertisement authorized by the provisions of section three of this act, the board shall proceed to purchase a site for said Georgia experiment station at some central point in the state. Purpose to purchase or re-

Better than a Book and Only Five Cents ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 15, 1888.

Good for the Old Red Hills.

When Mr. James Dickey was a boy h loughed over a hilly field in Fannin counv. His father had owned the farm for years, and each year it had yielded a scanty harvest from its thin soil. For generations it had been ploughed and sown and the harvesters had marched over it gathering short sheaves. A pretty good old farm it was .. but nothing more was ever expected of it than it gave up to the plow and sickle.

A few months ago the Chicago gentlemen who are developing the marble interests of north Georgia struck the old Dickey farm. They prodded into its crevices and gullies while there. They told Mr. Dickey that his farm was better than a gold mine. They found on it the best marble to be found in America. Result, a lease for one hundred years from Mr. Dickey on a royalty of every square foot of marble quarried, that is guaranteed to reach $1,000 every month and not to exceed $5,000 a month. Mr. Dickey has no expense, no work. He simply receipts every month for a minimum of $1,000 royalty. This income of $12,000 a year (which may be $60,000) is guaranteed for one hundred years. So the old farm makes Mr. Dickey and his heirs rich for gen

There are many such farms in Georgia Hiding under their soil not only marble, but iron, coal, copper, gold, phosphates, granite, and spread all over with rich pyrites or ores. The only trouble is we know nothing of them. The state is too poor to afford a geological survey. And so we will go on as Mr. Dickey did in ignor ance, ploughing the soil and harvesting their crops, while untold treasures lies buried just a few feet below and easily within our grasp! This old Georgia is the richest state mortal man ever beheld. It is a great pity we are too poor to send a man over it to classify and uncover its riches!

WE believe it is the duty of Ohio to send Fcraker to the senate. He ought to be where his red-flannel mouth and his billycock hat could attract national attention. The Man for the Place.

According to reports, Mr. Chauncey Depew says he will accept the English mission if General Harrison should be kind and thoughtful enough to offer it to him.

It would appear that Mr. Depew is wis in his day and generation. He would make a capital minister. For several years there have been serious objections to the gentlemen appointed to represent the United States at the court of St. James. Some were too high and mighty, others were too learned, and still others were too cultured. They have all missed fire.

Mr. Lowell, to go back no further, was too literary. He was a good feeder, but he had too much brain. Phelps, the immortal donkey, is too much of a snob. Instead of representing his own country, he has done his best to represent the noble lords of Great Britain. But Phelps is to be excused. He is nothing but a one-horse country lawver. and he owes his appointment to the simple fact that he was the only man in Vermont with mutton-chop whiskers.

We feel it in our bones that Mr. Depew is the man for the place. It is a job that can only be filled by a thorough man of the world, and Chauncey fills the bill. He is not literary, he is not too cultured; there is a happy balance between his brain and his stomach; he can make all sorts of speeches and tell all sorts of stories.

In short, he possesses every qualification that an American minister in London should have. He can set the table in a roar whenever he so pleases; he is a good judge of wine, and there is not a trencherman in all England that can compel him to unbutton his waistcoat.

By all means let Mr. Depew be appointed. Ir is thought that the only way to settle the saloon question in Missouri is to import a few Kentucky editors.

Race Increase in the South. Congressman Thomas, a republican from Kentucky, said recently in an interview with a newspaper reporter, that "in the lifetime of persons now living the negroes in the southern states will exceed 50,000,000, and that they will constitute a majority in all the southern states with the exception of two or three border states." Commenting on this statement, the Washington Post gives some figures in regard to Georgia that are Interesting: Georgia had the largest slave population of any of the southern states before the war, the number being 465,689 in 1860. In 1870 it had increased to 545,142, and in 1880 to 725,133, an increase of 79,453 for the first ten years, of 179,091 for the second, and of 259,444 for the entire twenty. In 1860 the white population of Georgia was 591,550. In 1870 it had increased to 638,926, and in 1880 to 815,906, an increase or 47,376 for the first ten years, of 177,980 for the second, of 225,356 for the entire southern states, because of a large white mm igration.

There are some facts relative to the popu lation of Georgia that are not taken into consideration by the Post. For instance, since the war a great many more whites have gone out of the state than have come into it. Up to a few years ago there was a constant drain on the population of the state. For years after the war there was hardly a day that the passenger station was not crowded with Georgians and their famiies on their way to Texas and the west.

What was true of Georgia was also true of the two Carolinas, though perhaps in a less degree. These people were flying from the ills they had to others they knew not of, and the emigrant movement was aided and accelerated by railroad agents with their slick tongues and ingenious methods. But the movement to the west has subsided Georgians-especially the farmersare making the most of their opportunities. and are staying at home. Then, for the last few years there has been a small but steady stream of immigration from the north and northwest, the result of industrial progress and development; so that when the next census is taken it will be found that the white population of the state is more than holding its own.

As to the negroes, it is not true that they are increasing faster than the whites. The percentage may be larger, but the real increase will fall under that of the whites. It is true that nobody now believes in the old theory that the race is dying out. On the other hand, it is impossible to believe it is increasing faster than the white race in Georgia or elsewhere in the south.

THE fact that Editor Halstead regards the whipping of women and men by the white caps of Ohio as a joke, shows what a wide field there is for genuine American humor.

THERE is no doubt that Mahone would ornament the republican cabinet. Riddle berger ought also to have a place.

"Sympathetic" Robbery.

It now appears that the bagging trust was no trust at all, nor was it an affair out of which its organizers hoped to make money At any rate, that is the impression which Mr. Appleton Sturgis, who has been giving testimony before the senate committee desires to leave on the public mind.

We gather from Brother Sturgis's testimony that he is a full-blooded Christian built on the pattern of Pecksniff Shepard. of the New York Mail and Express, and we advise Shepard to "acquire" him at once, just as he has "acquired" a man to edit the weekly edition of his great and good paper.

It seems that Mr. Appleton Sturgis, who, with other parties, has been making a strenuous, and not entirely unsuccessful. effort to rob the cotton-planters of the south by combining to put up the price of bagging. sees a dreadful meaning in the word "trust," and protests against its application to him and his partners.

The sensitive highwayman of old has a name in song and story, and perhaps Brother Sturgis and his coparceners aspire to similar notoriety. At any rate, while he was testifying before the senate investigat ing committee Mr. Appleton Sturgis objected to the word "trust" as offensive. He went on to say that he and some other gentlemen found that bagging was selling at a low figure, whereupon they organized "a sympathetic movement" (we invite gentle manly rascals everywhere to note the exceeding gentility of the phrase). They or ganized "a sympathetic movement." bought all the bagging they could lay hands on, purchased all the mills that could be inluced to sell out, and then "gradually" raised the price

It would be impossible to conceive of anything more engaging or attractive than Brother Sturgis's gilded description of a arofaced ex his testimony he so far forgot himself as to allude to "a sympathetic corner," but this was manifestly a slip, and Brother Sturgis will be remembered as the originator of the most pleasing description of modern highway robbery that has yet been invented. Hereafter, we are not to be robbed or swindled; we are to be the victim of "sympathetic movements;" we are to be robbed, not suddenly, but gradually.

COOPER'S COMPLAINT.

He Is Awarded One Thousand Dollars Damages from B. B. B.

Ages from B. B. B.

James M. Cooper feels better.

He took his medicine and he thought it did him no good, but he is better off by it, anyway.

The reason of his improvement is the fact that on yestorday a jury in the city court awarded him damages to the amount of one thousand dollars in his suit against the Blood Rain company Balm company.

To begin at the beginning, Mr. Cooper is a middle aged citizen of Griffin, and by trade a middle ager chizen of Grinn, and by trace a gin repairer.

He was not always a gin repairer, however, but in his younger days he was a skillful car penter, and at the breaking out of the war he volunteered from Walker county. The confederacy had not got on to its last legs then, and it rejected Mr. Cooper because he had a sero leg

Sore leg.

He was not able to go into active service, but he did serve in other departments until the ciose of the struggle.

He removed to Upson county and continued in his trade of carpenter and builder until the trouble in his leg caused him to abandon that and go into the gin business.

A little more than a year ago the humer in his leg became so troublesome that he went to his physician for advice, and the doctor adviced him to take a blood nutifer.

And on advice of friends he sent this bottle to Hail & Hammond, Atlanta, and began suit for damages against the company.

Under oath on the trial he testified that his leg grew worse, his mouth and throat became erated, and so badly was his system broken up that he has been partially incapacitated for into the case in considerable detail, discussing the evil effects of iodide of potash, if taken in the evil effects of iodice of potash, if taken in quantities too large.

Hillyer Bros. appeared for the defense, and Hammond & Hall for the prosecution. After three days trial the case went to the jury.

The damages were placed at two thousand five hundred dollars, but the jury decided that one thousand, with costs of the suit, would act as a pretty good salve, so they awarded that to Mr. Cooper vesterday

Mr. Cooper yesterday.

The case is rather peculiar. It is not unusual for the man of medicine to have to sue the patient for service rendered, but for the patient to sue the medicine man for damaging his anatomy is unique.

The cast of the opera was as follows: J. W. Wells-R. B. Shepherd. Alline-Miss Irene Farrar. Lady Sangazure-Miss Maude Chrichton.

The opera was a perfect success. Not a hitch occurred during the perfermance, and everybody did well. All the men looked handsome and the chorus of pretty girls was indeed pretty.

The principal feature was the costume recital by Miss Lula Porter. But it was missnamed "recital."
It was character acting in costume, and Miss Porter distinguished herself in each role.

She appeared four times, and all of her selections were difficult and called for a different order of were dimensional additive.

The "Countess," by DeMille, was finely acted.
Here she personated to perfection a bluff ignorant Englishman and a refined, cultivated French countess. The quick changes of voice, manner and

"Money Musk" was given with surprising power.
The action here was very fine, the voice changes,

"O'Connor's Child," a most difficult character, ras thoroughly conceived and effectively executed, he looked and acted the character, throwing into her voice, countenance and gosticulation all the athos, the midness and the tragicaction for which he character calls. At times she showed intense motional power, and her weeping was really afecting. The Scotch costume was correct, and idded greatly to the success of the personation.
She took a long step from "O'Connor's Child" to 'Nan, the Good for Nothing." In this she was

For the rest Mrs. Charles W. Hubner sang "She's the Image of Her Mother" so well that she was forced to come back, when she sang, "When I Was Single," convulsing the audience: Mrs. J. C. Pendieton sang "Daisy Polka," and "Within a Mile of Edinboro Town," beautifully; Mrs. M. B. Williams sang "The Arrow and the Song," most sweetly, and was called; Miss Dora Grosse an instrumental piece, "Norma," by Leybach, with correctness and fine touch; and Mr. Wheeler gave a cornet solo with good effect.

At the close of the programme, refreshments were served by the ladies of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Keene Next Week.

Judging from the sale of seats which opened with a big demand yesterday morning, Mr. Keene's engagement here will be, as usual, very large. The Birmingham Herald said of the play:

The audience last night at O'Brien's was the largest of the season, and Keene's characterization of Richard III was enjoyed to the uttermost. The play is familiar to all. The blood-thirsty villian from first to last, strong only in ambition, has not often been better delineated. Blunt, though dashing, he presents the character as possibly no other living actor is able. He shows from first to last the demon, and in the love scene with Lady Anne and on the battlefield with kichmond, he excelled, if possible, even himself. Not a person present, who knew the character, failed to applaud the excellent manner in which Keene presented ft. The support was, in almost every respect, good. Miss Louise Pomeroy, as Elizabeth, was exceedingly fine, and was warmly applauded. Mr. Keene and his excellent company may rest assured that they will always receive a hearty velcome at the hands of the Birmingham

Mr. Jim Burbridge, who is manager of the Jacksonville opera house, takes a hopeful view of the situation. He opens his theater on the 20th, and expects as good a season as usual.

That Montgomery Meeting.—Major W. L. Gleisner returned from Montgomery yesterday. He says that the interstate immigration convention was a grand affair. Fourteen states, from Kentucky to Texas, were represented. Besides himself there were Captain Redding, of Atlanta; John T. Graves, of Rome; L. J. Ellis, of the East Tennessee, and C. L. Rais, of the Georgia Southern, and Sam Tate represented Georgia. The object of the convention was to better advertise the south, to secure better rates of travel, and by combined influence to further the movement in every way. Major Gleisner introduced ion to hold the next convention in Atlanta, which was referred to a committee, of which he is the representative from Georgia, and it is probable the resolution will be adopted.

Strong changed his mind. He now has this to "I am not satisfied with the decision of the primary. The primary is a lower court, so to speak, and I am going to appeal to a higher court—the people of Fulton county." "Are you going to run as an independent?" "That's what I mean by appealing to a higher court. My friends have been to me from all parts of the county. They say they will get up a petition as long as from here to Buckhead, asking me to make the race. I think I shall make it."

"Why wont you abide by the primary?" "It was unfair." "I am not ready to talk yet. When I am ady to start my canvass I'll specify all

"It just shows that people don't know what they are talking about. They're making my ticket for me already. Next time, I suppose, they'll elect it for me."
"You have nothing more definite than that

"Not yet. I'll tell you tomorrow."
Not exceeding a half dozen men in Fulton ounty know more than this about Judge trong's proposed race. He was approached sterday, as he states, by personal friends ho urged him to make the race, and by other no urged him to make the race, and by other iends who tried to dissuade him. He tells the result himself. Judge Strong knows that of the Thursday's oters he will receive in January less than 128. It will take 2,000 at least to elect him.

Where are the other 900 votes to come from? They can hardly be expected of the bridge party element, and the only source that could furnish them is the republican party.

"Judge Strong, as he told you," said Chairman Hugh Culberson yesterday, "was opposed to the primary. He made the proposition to the executive committee that as only two to the primary. Not exceeding a half dozen men in Fulton county know more than this about Judge Strong's proposed race. He was appreached yesteday, as he states, by personal friends who urged him to make the race, and by other triends who tried to dissuade him.

'He tells the result himself.

Judge Strong Knows that of the Thursday's yoters he will receive in January less than 1,128. It will take 2,000 at least to elect him, Where are the other 900 votes to come from? They can hardly be expected of the third party element, and the only source that could turnish them is the republican party.

"Judge Strong, as he told you," said Chairman Hagh Culberson yesterday, "was opposed to the pripary. He made the preposition to the executive committee that as only two candidates were running that they be allowed to stay out of the primary and make the race before the people. He said that he had the negre vote and had a better chance before the people than he would have in a primary."

Jackson McHenry, the most effective negroleader in Atlanta, is quoted on good authority.

It was a given a given to the cleetion:

"If the colored people had a say-so in it, budge Strong would beat Tanner all to pieces. Judge Strong is an old citizen here and a friend to the colored people."

Another more or less tangible rumer is to the effect that there will be a supreme effort made by the republican party at the election in January. The Anglers, so it is said, will lead the movement and foreign money will be supplied as needed.

That's all there is to it.

They Deny.

In reply to the charge of Judge Strong that be primary was not fairly conducted, Captain

A Jeweled Damascus Sword.

The rarest art treasure yet donated to the art loan was sent yesterday by Mr. Julius Brown. It is a Damasens sword, whose shining blade is inlaid with Exptian hieroglyphics in gold. The gold sheath on one side is richly carved and inlaid with red coral and turquoises. Most of the turquoises are larger than medium-sized medallions and are carved with Egyptian hieroglyphics. The other side of the scabbard is of heavy gold, wrought in rich designs. This sword was presented by the shah of Persia to the great Indian governor who, in the time of Warren Hastings, gave the English so much trouble. It was aftern a ds purchased in Constantinople by the Mexican munister to Austria and given to Governor Gonzales, president of Mexico. By him it was given to General Jose Monterious, his secretary of war, and by him it was presented to General Santiago Montescinos, who had been one of Maximilian's generals, and from him it was purchased by Mr. Julius Brown.

Camp Jackson sold out in the evening and is ready for contributions bright and early this morning.

The elegant cologne set at Camp Jackson was won by M ss Harton, and the dolf 35 inches high, by Colouel George Fry. At Camp Gordon today the beautiful carving set presented by the Atlanta rifles and the big punch bowl, by Steve Eyan, will be raffled.

The beautiful silver pitcher and cup at Camp Lee, presented by the Sumter Guard, Charleston, South Carolina, was won by Mrs. Sam'l W. Goode. The Gordon broom, at Camp Gordon, was contested for by Messrs. Colquitt and Calboun, and won by the later, who presented it to Mrs. Jas. Loyd, according to agreement.

At Japan is also a contribution from old soldiers at the hospital, cut on the field of Fort Sted-man, the scene of Gorden's famous charge. Only four of the mare left. There is also a Gostly set of China plates hand painted, to be raffled. They were donated by Mr. Lyceste, and an elegant pistol is also to be raffled tonight.

The splendid success of Mrs. J. H. Porter

The splendid success of Mrs. J. H. Porter with Tennessea Day at the fair is the topic of talk among the veterans. The Tennesseans in Atlanta are a host and a power and when led by Mrs. Porter and backed by the friends her name hovkes they are irresistible. The programme she arranged for Tennessee evening would fill the operahouse.

"Camp Gordon," presided over by Mrs. James Loyd, contains the general's old army coat, and will contain the battle flag of the McIntosh Guards, placed there by Mrs. A. W. Force, through the couriesy of Captain Blount. The Atlanta Artillery have donated a handsome carving set to this camp.

The handsome picture of Governor Gordon donated to Camp Gordon by Mr. Moies, is being raffied at $1 a chance. That a great many chances will be taken is unnecessary to state, for there is not a loyal democrat in the city of Atlanta, but who would be happy to possess a portrait of our great Georgia general and present governor.

The ladies in charge of Virginia Day cleared a larger sum of money than has yet been made in a larger sum of money than has yet been made in one day at the fair. Mrs. Frank Myers has some valuable and beautiful articles at the loan, among them a camels hair shawl made up of tiny embroidered squares wrought together and blending their rich shades harmoniously. It is one of the rarest of these shawls ever brought to America: Some pieces of old East India china used in Mrs. Myers's family seventy years are artistically painted, and the colors are still as bright as when first burned in. A portrait, by Sully, of Mrs. Myers's grandfather, the great tragedian, Cooper, is very fine. The picture represents Cooper in the character of Hamlet, and the face and power that, in life, made an audience spell-bound, speaks from the canyas with living fire.

NEW YORK, December 14.—The stock market today was in command of room traders. The situa-tion was not so favorable as during the early portion of the week, as a further rise in the exchange was accompanied by heavy engagements of gold for shipment, bringing the total amount for this week up to a larger sum than for any previous week this year, and rates for money on call were again shoved up to 5 per cent, which is equal to that ruling in up to 5 per cent, which is equal to that ruling in London. Signing of an agreement to restore the rate by presidents of six of the western roads failed to stimulate business, as the feering at present is that such arrangements are not to be trusted. Local operators of any weight are doing little or nothing. Traders changed sides from time to time during the day, and while there were frequent changes in the temper of speculation, fluctuations were almost entirely made within range of 1 per cent, and most entirely made within range of 1 per cent, and most of the stocks traded in failed to show any difference of mode other than 1/2 per cent between their ex-treme prices. There was considerable an mation in canal stocks, especially Lackawanna, in which there was a rumor of scrip dividend, although no authority for the statement could be traced. Grangers were next in order with Lake Shore and cotton oil, but the remainder were with no reature of important ance. The final changes in the active list, withou exception, were for fractional amounts only, Delaware and Hudson showing the largest decline, 74 per cent. The market closed dull and steady. The sales aggregated 161,000 shares. Exchange dull and steady at 455/@490. Money easy at 3@5. Subtreasury balances: Coin $135,488,000; currency, $15,348,000. Governments dull but teady; 4s 128; 41/s 1081/s. State bonds dull but feature-

Showing a decrease 1,000 NEW YORK, December 14.-[Special.]-Henry Clews & Co.'s circular says: The market for the entire week has been dull, stupid and almost entirely devoid of interest. The bull interest has at times been encouraged by a degree of strenth shown in the Liverpool market, the statistical situation being of a pages to encourage. being of a nature to encourage purchases, but no progress could be made against the solid and deterprogress could be made against the solld and determined front shown by the bears. The bulls are scattered and have no leader. They have the statistical position in their favor, but each and every one of them are in the market for a small profit, and are willing and anxious to sell out on their neighbor at the first favorable opportunity. The bears, on the contrary, are working in concert, and being tully aware of the situation, leave no stone on the profit of the longs to cover. We do not think the long interest is as great as it was a week ago. The bears are not ravenous, but seem wiiding to take moderate profits, and they have bought quits freely on each breat. They will, likely continue to buy cotton on the way down and when this outside interest is covered, we will be in a position for a good advance. The short interest has been favored by the crop movement, which is largely in excess of last year. Today it resulted in a drop of about rix points, closing the market weak at the bottom prices of the day, although during the early bottom prices of the day, although during the early trading there was much hope of an improvement, owing to good Livery ool advices and Bradstreet's ante of the crop, they having received refrom 2,900 correspondents, making the crop 6,500,000. Adding eight percent for errors, the crop would be 6,800,000 to 6,850,000 bales, but the recent campaign of hammering occurred with the result above stated. Prices are too low to admit of any further sating of importance, and-we advise judicious resulting of importance, and-we advise judicious resulting of importance. efous purchases on small breaks.

John S. Ernest. NEW YORK, D comber 14-Hubbard, Price & Co., in their cotton circular to-day, say: The market opened any business, and bears seeing the market without support hammered prices persi tently till the close, which was stendy at the lowest quotation Proposals for Mail Locks. POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., November 22, 1888. CEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED AT this Department until 12 o'clock noon, on Fri-day, the first day of February, 1889, for furnishing a new kind of mail locks and keys for the sole and exclusive use of the United States through registered mails.

As the public exposure and searching examination necessary to intelligent bidding on any prescribed model of a lock and key would tend to impair, if not entirely destroy, the further utility of such locks and keys for the purposes of the mails, the Postmaster-General prescribes no model or sample for bidders, but relies for a selection on the mechanical skill and ingenuity which a fair competition among inventors, hereby invited, may develop into samples submitted by them.

Specifications of the conditions and requirements relating to proposals, samples, contracts, etc. Specifications of the conditions and requirements relating to proposals, samples, contracts, etc., as well as forms of proposal, will be furnished on application by letter to the Second Assistant Postmaster-General.

No proposal will be considered unless it shall have been submitted in accordance with such specifications and forms.

The contracts which may be made will be in conformity to the specifications and the accepted proposal. But the right is, however, reserved to reject posal. But the right is, now to be any and all of the proposals.

A WIZARD INDEED.

THE WONDERFUL BILLIARD PLAY-ING OF HARVEY M'KINNA.

His Rail-Play and Marvelous Fancy Shots-An Exhibition by the Champion Bill

lardist-Another One Tonight. Five hundred points or no count! Anybody who knows anything at all about billiards knows that that means a wonderful

Yet that is the standing offer of Mr. Harvey McKenna, the billiard expert, who gave an exhibition in the billiard room of the Kimball last night. McKenna is comparatively unknown to peo ple who do not follow closely the news of the "gentleman's game," but he has made a wonderful reputation as a billfardist and his play last night showed that he is clearly entitled to the sobriquet so long given to the famous Schaeffer, "the wizard." Nothing like it has not only never been seen here, but it has never been imagined. By rail play that was simply marvelous, he ran his 500 points with great ease, and it looked as if be could keep up the same lick all night long.

And he could have done so, for he has done so could keep up the same lick all night long. And he could have done so, for he has done so in the past, having made as many as 2,572 points before missing. That is the world's best record, and is far ahead of anything ever done by any other player.

The billiard room of the Kimball was crowded with people who had assembled upon invitation of Mr. Beermann to witness Mr. McKenna's playing. They found a man of medium height, with brown hair and beard, and bright blue eyes. He is a modest fellow, and seemed a little disconcerted at the applause which greeted his appearance.

A northern traveling man who is known as the best billiardist who comes to Atlanta, but who is also modest, so modest that he prefers to be known only as Mr. Smith, was Mr. McKenna's opponent. The game was played on a Union League Brunswick-Balke Collender table, the best in the room.

The men banked for first shot and Smith won. He made one point, then McKenna followed with three, missing what seemed an easy one. Smith then made four, and McKenna followed with forty-four, but these did not, of course, count under the conditions of the game. Smith followed with seven, making twelve in all. He then sat down in a convenient chair and remained there. That was the only thing for him to do under the circumstances, for McKenna had got the balls where he wanted them and had started them on that 500 point journey.

It was a journey along the rail, slowly down.

he wanted them and had started them on that 500 point journey.

It was a journey along the rail, slowly down the long rail, then, by a beautiful turn which was almost mechanical in its accuracy, down the short one, then another turn into the other long one, and so on until he had gone nearly twice around the table.

His stroke is delicate, yet every click of the ivories is plainly heard, each stroke being clear and perfect. There was no freezing, but every point was clean cut and clearly made. His cemmand of the balls is simply marvelous. He seems to be able to do anything he wants with them, and he does it all with a stroke that is absolutely uniform.

seems to be able to do anything he wants with them, and he does it all with a stroke that be absolutely uniform.

Mr. McKenna is not in good health, and when he had reached 127 points he took a short rest. Several times during his run he rested for just a minute, but his play was rapid, and it did not take long to run the 588 points. At each hundred he was warmly cheered, and enthusiastic applause greeted the 500 point.

After this game he gave a short explanation of what is meant by the balk line, and then gave an exhibition of fancy shots. This portion of the entertainment was more wonderful, if possible, than the straight play. Among these were making a carom and running his ball along the rail, finally counting in the fursther corner; jumping his ball from the cushion at the opposite end of the table back over the gas ject; a double shot with the balls in a square, without touching a cushion; a double follow; putting one ball on a piece of chalk and jumping this into a hat, at the same time making a carom, and many others, among them most difficult kiss shots.

Mr. McKenna will give another exhibition tonight. The billiard room was found too small to accommodate these who desired to see him last night, and tonight his exhibition will be given in the Kimball house ball room. To this an admission fee of 50 cents will be charged to defray necessary expenses. The gallery will be reserved for ladies.

Mr. McKenna is on his way to southern Callfornia. He goes from here to Montgomery,

A WIZARD INDEED.

THE WONDERFUL BILLIARD PLAY-

His Rail-Play and Marvelous Fancy Shots-An Exhibition by the Champion Billlardist-Another One Tonight.

Five hundred points or no count Anybody who knows anything at all about billiards knows that that means a wonderful

Yet that is the standing offer of Mr. Harvey McKenna, the billiard expert, who gave an exhibition in the billiard room of the Kimball last night.

McKenna is comparatively unknown to people who do not follow closely the news of the "gentleman's game," but he has made a wonderful reputation as a billiardist and his play last night showed that he is clearly entitled to the sobriquet so long given to the famous Schaeffer, "the wizard."

Nothing like it has not only never been see here, but it has never been imagined. By rail play that was simply marvelous, he ran his 500 points with great ease, and it looked as if he could keep up the same lick all night long. And he could have done so, for he has done so

And he could have done so, for he has done so in the past, having made as many as 2,572 points before missing. That is the world's best record, and is far ahead of anything ever done by any other player.

The billiard room of the "Kimball was crowded with people who had assembled upon invitation of Mr. Beermann to witness Mr. McKenna's playing. They found a man of medium height, with brown hair and beard, and bright blue eyes. He is a modest fellow, and seemed a little disconcerted at the applanse which greeted his appearance.

A northern traveling man who is known as the best billiardist who comes to Atlanta, but who is also modest, so modest that he prefers to be known only as Mr. Smith, was Mr. McKenna's opponent. The game was played on a Union League Brunswick-Balke Collender table, the best in the room.

The men banked for first shot and Smith won. He made one point, then McKenna followed with three, missing what seemed an easy one. Smith then made four, and McKenna followed with forty-four, but these did not, of course, count under the conditions of the game. Smith followed with seven, making twelve in all. He then sat down in a convenient chair and remained there. That was the only thing for him to do under the circumstances, for McKenna had got the balls where he wanted them and had started them on that 500 point journey.

be wanted them and act state to the point journey.

It was a journey along the rail, slowly down the long rail, then, by a beautiful turn which was almost mechanical in its accuracy, down the short one, then another turn into the other long one, and so on until he had gone nearly long one, and so on until he had gone hearly twice around the table.

His stroke is delicate, yet every click of the ivories is plainly heard, each stroke being clear and perfect. There was no freezing, but every point was clean cut and clearly made. His command of the balls is simply marvelous. He seems to be able to do anything he wants with them, and he does it all with a stroke that is sheely they uniform.

Mr. McKenna is not in good health, and Mr. McKenna is not in good health, and when he had reached 127 points he took a short rest. Several times during his run he rested for just a minute, but his play was rapid, and it did not take long to run the 588 points. At each hundred he was warmly cheered, and entic applause greeted the 500 point.

After this game he gave a short explanation of what is meant by the balk line, and then gave an exhibition of fancy shots. This portion of the entertainment was more wonderful, if possible, than the straight play, Among these were making a care and province his these were making a carom and running hi ball along the rail, finally counting in the furs ther corner; jumping his ball from the cushion at the opposite end of the table back over the gas ject; a double shot with the balls in a square, without touching a cushion; a double square, without touching a cushion; a double follow; putting one ball on a piece of chalk and jumping this into a hat, at the same time making a carom, and many others, among them most difficult kiss shots.

An Exhibition Tonight.

Mr. McKenna will give another exhibition tonight. The billiard room was found too small to accommodate these who desired to see him last night, and tonight his exhibition will be given in the Kimball house ball room. To this an admission fee of 50 cents will be charged be given in the Kimball house ball room. To this an admission fee of 50 cents will be charged o defray necessary expenses. PACETTI'S ALL RIGHT. HAT IS, HE IS SAFE IN BALTIMORE JAIL.

His Case Goes to the United States Suprema Court—The Fight His Lawyers Make-Solicitor O'Bryan Is Well Satisfied.

Pacetti slept last night in a Baltimore jail. And Solicitor Frank O'Bryan and Bailiff Crim

Atlanta.

To go to the end of the story Pacetti was sen-enced for twelve months in May last, by Judge Van Epps, for keeping a gambling house. Pending an appeal to supreme court, Pacetti went to Ma-con and he heard there of the affirmation of his sentence. He skipped to Savaunah and from there sentence. He skipped to Savannah and from there by steamer to Baltimore.

Captain Couch learned this two hours after the "John Hopkins" left Savannah and immediately telegraphed ahead to Baltimore.
Pacetti was arrested as he stepped upon the wharf, and when this was wired to Atlanta, Bailff Crim was sent to Baltimore after him.
But Pacetti stayed there,
After Governor Eighn J. Jackson, had honored Governor Gordon's requisition, Pacetti employed counsel. A writ of habeas corpus was sworn out before Judge Phelps, of the circuit court. Pacetti was remanded back to Bailiff Crim.
Then another writ of habeas corpus was sworn

Then another writ of habeas corpus was sworn out before Judge Norris, of the United States disrict court. Pacetti was again remanded.

Pacetti then appealed to Judge Bond, United states circuit court, and pending this decision, olicitor O'Bryan was telegraphed for and went to saltimore. Yesterday Pacetti was remanded to the Georgia ithorities.

Finally, under a decision in the famous Roberts ase, Pacetti appealed to the supreme court of the use, Pacetti appealed to the supreme court of the nited States. Judg: Bond refused him ball, and required in his dear that Pacetti's attorney should perfect his bond twenty days, otherwise he would revoke the Meanwhile Pac stil is in custody of Marshal Frey the Baltimore jail, and probably will be for wenty days. Then the case goes to the court from which there is no appeal.

Pacetti's attorney says that his client shall never some back to serve the sentence, and his sporting riends say he can have all the money he needs to gift and whip the case.

Mr. O'Bryan was found at the Kimball last night.

Attorney Chas. G. Kerr."

"Did you see Pacetti?"

"Ob, yes. He is looking all right—a little stillen over the repeated decisions against him. He says he will kill himself before he comes back to Georgia. I told him there was no other way out of it. "By the way, there was a fine looking woman always present at the trial. "Facetti hitroduced her to me as his wife. Captain Crim is ready to go back at a moment's warning, and regretted having to leave Pacetti there. Judge Boud said in rendering his decision that Pacetti would have to come back to the tune of "Marching"

Bond said in rendering his decision that Pacett would have to come back to the tune of "Marching "Through Georgia."

"The appeal must be perfected by January 3d, and then the case will be set and I am ready to argue it at any time. There is no possible chance of escape for Facetti. All his lawyers know that but are simply delaying it as long as they can."

A few days ago a Mississippi man wrote to the police department of Atlanta to this effect:

"I was in Atlanta during the Piedmont exposition, and while there I pawned a valuable diamond ring to one C. C. Nelson, president of the Northside Savings bank of your ciy. I have written to him repeatedly but can get no answer. Please have the matter looked into for me."

They mailed him a circular headed like this:
$1,000 reward!

St.0.00 roward!

C. C. Nelson, absconding banker.
Charged with forgery, larceny, perjury, embezzlement, cheating and swindling."
Following this was the description.
All of which goes to show that if the Mississippi man had read The Constitution, as he should have done, he might have got Abe Fry to bring back the ring for him.

But it's too late now. Signs One Can't Mistake.
